1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm, humid air of the tropics. The wind was biting, and the clouds were thick and grey. I shivered as I walked down the stairs, my hands clinging to the railing. The ground was hard and uneven, and I stumbled a few times. I looked up at the sky, trying to find a sign of the sun, but all I saw was a heavy blanket of clouds. The air was stagnant, and I could feel it in my lungs.
I took a deep breath, trying to clear my head. The world felt like a different place, like a dream. I was alone, and I was scared. I wanted to go home, to the warm sun and the gentle breeze. But I was here, and I had to stay. I looked down at my feet, trying to find my way. The ground was slippery, and I fell. I lay on my back, my head hitting the ground. I closed my eyes, and I felt a sense of peace. I was finally home.
